

language prompts. Now, database app creation in RecordsManager is faster than ever.

What's New in the Altova Product Line?

Altova Has Announced Version 2024 with AI Assistants, PDF Data Mapping, and More

New features across the product line include:

- AI Assistant in XMLSpy immediately boosts productivity for XML and JSON development tasks by generating schemas, instance documents, and sample data based on natural language prompts. The AI Assistant can also generate XSL, XPath, and XQuery code. Generated code can be copied, opened in a new document, or sent to the XPath/XQuery window for further review and refinement.
- MapForce PDF Extractor is an easy-to-use, visual utility for defining the structure of a PDF document and extracting data from it. That data is then available for mapping to other formats in MapForce, including Excel, JSON, databases, XML, etc., for conversion, data integration, and ETL processes.
- AI integration in DatabaseSpy includes an AI Assistant for generating SQL statements, sample data, table relations, and more, as well as AI extensions to explain, pretty print, and complete SQL statements. This AI functionality can offer a significant productivity boost for users of the multi-database tool and SQL editor.
- Split output preview for XML and database report design in StyleVision lets designers see the changes they make in a design reflected in the output in real time. The option splits the UI into two, side-by-side panes that show the design and corresponding output in HTML, PDF, Word, or text at the same time.

These and many additional features are available in Version 2024. To view the new features in each product and access trial downloads please visit:
